FAITH IN PREMIER ABERHART SPLIT

John Hargrave, head of the Greenhirts, Social Credit organization in Great Britain, who came to Canada to assist in the Social Credit experiment, has come to the parting of the ways with the Alberta government.

In a signed statement, handed out to Edmonton newspapers today, the British expert says he is not lost faith in the government of Premier Aberhart and that he has no confidence either in their ability or intention of ever putting Social Credit in force in Alberta.

The break came following a series of meetings Mr. Hargrave held with the cabinet, the last on Friday evening. It was noted that Mr. C. Crockett and Mr. H. M. Chant were not at the meeting. Hon. E. C. Manning, who is on sick leave, was absent, as was Attorney General Huggill.

Premier Aberhart, informed of the statement, refused comment until he has seen it in full. The full statement, released at 1 o'clock this afternoon, is as follows:

"On Friday, January 22, 1937, I was asked to attend a meeting in the Premier's room at the Legislative building at 4:30 p.m. Hon. Dr. Crockett, Hon. Mr. Fallow, Hon. Mr. Manning and Hon. Mr. Toner were present, with Mr. Aberhart in the chair. The meeting ended at 8:30 p.m.

"After attending this meeting, my confidence may have had in the Premier and his cabinet as men who might prove to be capable of taking the proper steps to prepare the way for the introduction of Social Credit in Alberta was finally shattered, and, therefore, I have felt myself unable to co-operate further with Mr. Aberhart and his cabinet.

"At this meeting Mr. Aberhart appeared to suggest that I should present certain statements made by me in written interviews for the press and published January 14 and 15, and this I could not agree to do because those statements were and are, in my opinion, entirely correct.

"I still feel that the first Social Credit government in the world is not yet publicly acknowledged, and that, as a result of this, it has, over the past 16 months, proved its way like a man stumbling along on a pitch black night. This, I feel, and as I stated in the first interview, indicates that it was groping its way 'in the right general direction', but, as a result of the meeting held on January 22, I should now be able to say even that.

"I am still of the opinion that Social Credit could be successfully put into operation, but I am no longer in support of this view. I may quote a paragraph from the 'Social Credit' weekly (London, Eng.), dated January last:

GOVERNMENT HAS POWER
Premier Aberhart's government in Alberta, at present, has the power to change the constitution of the Social Credit province of Alberta, and to change the constitution of the Dominion of Canada.

Horrors Increase When Path of Flame Makes Day on River Course

CINCINNATI, Jan. 25.—This water-ravaged city, swept by flames 300 feet high in the worst blaze in its history, saw the swollen Ohio river continue its relentless rise today amid new fire and flood hazards. A trolley were fell in gasoline floating on the debris-laden waters. Wind and current carried the flames through the Mill Creek industrial district. Fire Chief Barney Houston said they extended three miles and were a mile wide. A 60,000 gallon tank of gasoline exploded at the height of the disaster which caused a loss of $1,500,000.

KNOWN FLOOD DEAD BY STATES:

Arkansas, 3; Illinois, 3; Kentucky, 9; Missouri, 2; Mississippi, 1; Ohio, 9; Tennessee, 9; West Virginia, 7; Pennsylvania, 1. Total, 44. The Kentucky total did not include the estimated number of prisoners dead in the Frankfort riot, which would make the nation's total 59.

By the Associated Press
Fire and water formed a strange and terrifying alliance today to heap new misery and the threat of death upon dwellers in the flooded Ohio river valley. Flaming oil floated through parts of Cincinnati and the waters coursed downstream bearing the torch of destruction toward other communities.

The United States government mobilized forces on a virtual wartime basis to aid the Red Cross as the hourly mounting reports from the 12 flood states pushed the known dead total to 44 and the number of homeless to over 500,000.

Darkness engulfed Louisville, Ky., when the last power source failed. The water supply was cut Saturday. Fear of fire was heightened. Armed farmers of the Bird's Point, New Madrid, Mo., floodway area sought to prevent United States army engineers from opening a levee in an effort to divert flood waters from Cairo, Ill.

The engineers prepared to dynamite the levee in three places under armed guard after all floodway levees were evacuated.

Eighteen Injured In Fighting Fire
Eighteen firemen were injured fighting a 300,000-gallon fire in the industrial Mill Creek district. The blaze continued today. A hanging 60,000-gallon tank of gasoline drifted downstream from the city and police reported four others were still afloat.

Louisville restored city water for fire department use only by turning a flooded pump station with water from a 60,000-gallon tank. The Ohio was at 54.2 feet, more than 36 above flood stage.

INTEREST CUT ON BUILDING LOANS URGED

129 Resolutions Face Alberta Federation of Labor Convention

Franking by a staggering agenda of 129 resolutions, chief of which is a demand for reduction of interest on building loans, delegates to the twenty-second annual convention of the Alberta Federation of Labor assembled at the Labor Temple Monday morning.

Resolution number 38, proposed by the Calgary Trades and Labor Council, urges the federal government to make money for building available at 14 per cent.

At this meeting Mr. Aberhart appeared to suggest that I should present certain statements made by me in written interviews for the press and published January 14 and 15, and this I could not agree to do because those statements were and are, in my opinion, entirely correct.

INTIMATE GLIMPSES AND INSIDE STUFF ON THE MOVIE COLONY

By PAUL HARRISON

THE greatest training school in the world for a film career is a "gossip" job, according to James Martin, who is working as Charles Boyer's stand-in in "History Is Made At Night."

Determined that he would be satisfied with nothing but a screen career, Martin quit his job as an industrial chemist in Scotland about a year ago.

You may think "dead gas" isn't much to brag about, but it is.

THE two men, whose names were given as Horner Howard, 38, and Arthur Fontaine, 32, had been arrested October 18 in connection with a series of robberies here, and avoided justice first near month.

THEY made their break from the jail's window, where a man had escorted them from their cells to talk to their lawyer, Paul Lejac.

Arriving in the little grubby room, Fontaine pulled a revolver from his clothes and the prisoners held up the guard, taking his keys police said.

While one of the guards stood off at gun point, the other gained admittance to an office and grabbed up five revolvers and a box of cartridges, it was learned.

Looking their jailer straight in the vitals, Fontaine and Lejac fled on foot from the prison to a garage and commandeered a taxi.

The emotional story of a woman who is determined to find a boy's life, and the vengeful fury of a husband's hate bring intrigue, romance and adventure to new peaks in "Lloyd's of London." Twenty-Century Fox picture.

Freddie Bartholomew is co-starred with Mary Carroll, and the cast also features Guy Standing, C. Aubrey Smith and Virginia Field.

Dr. F. Zumbach, selected Henry King to direct with Kenneth Macdonald as associate producer.

The story of "Lloyd's of London" is an intricate tale of the destiny of a love which alters the destiny of one of the world's great empires. It is the romance of Jonathan Blake and Lady Elizabeth, which begins in the exciting days of Napoleon's ascendancy in France.

Jonathan, a brilliant, storm-tossed channel cruising in a small boat, and Elizabeth, a young woman, meet and discover that his beloved is the wife of Lord Stirling, his sworn enemy.

Jonathan, raised as the daughter of a noble, came to his own in England that no man will be able to live. His emotional career, which is the result of a bitter struggle for power, tempered only by his love for Elizabeth.

Story is an ever-moving figure and the knowledge that Elizabeth loves the youthful, adventurous Jonathan provides a powerful motivation. It is Elizabeth's love that at last brings Jonathan to follow the lead of his beloved and the fate of a sweeping victory at the battle of Waterloo, which provides the climactic close to this dramatic tale of women, love and hate.

WHEAT BATTLE CONTINUES TO RAGE IN CITY

Herman Trelle Says North Country Should Not Be Denounced

The wheat war waged with unabated vigor Monday afternoon by Herman Trelle, one of the farmers of the world, who precipitated the dispute by joining issue with Dr. McCalla, has been continued by the latter, for criticizing northern wheat was confined to his north with a severe cold.

Dr. Trelle strenuously denied that he ever refused to send the wheat sample of his 1938 wheat and said that the cause of his delay in sending the sample was that he was that he had been delayed by a severe cold.

Dr. Trelle said he was willing to send the sample as soon as possible.

WILLING TO DENY

"I think it is unfortunate that Dr. K. W. Nealey, of the University of Alberta, has taken the position that he would have rushed into the argument. I do not want to see this question narrowed down to a mere personal issue between me and Dr. McCalla. I am still willing to hold a public discussion on this question with him but it must be on a larger basis than the controversy has thus far assumed."

"I would like the discussion to determine this question—whether price goes in general. I would like to see the distinction made in its appearance, without any regard to its price content, or whether it is actually can make good bread as well as look as if it could."

McCALLA COMMENTS

Dr. McCalla, the handsome, affable, middle-aged man, who lives at the Alberta State Government, has responded to the criticism of Dr. Trelle's statements.

"As I have already said, I consider the question of the quality of northern wheat, and I am still willing to discuss the farmer's grain and to analyze the question whether wheat is better, merrier, lovelier, or tastier food."

NO NO KEY

"Canadian Press dispatch which appeared in the newspapers Friday, said that Dr. Trelle had refused to give me a sample of his prize wheat. I had reported that report in the newspapers. I have not heard from him since. I have not heard from him since. I have not heard from him since."
